About DASP1P (Seminar / Project Report)

This component is designed to provide students with hands-on research experience. Learners will undertake a small research project or seminar based on demographic issues such as population trends, migration, health, or social problems. It aims to develop skills in data collection, analysis, report writing, and presentation. The focus is on applying theoretical knowledge to real-world situations.

Objective:

- To provide learners with practical exposure to research in demographic studies.
- To develop skills in identifying and analyzing population-related issues.
- To train students in basic research methods, including data collection and interpretation.
- To enhance abilities in academic writing and report preparation.
- To build confidence in presentation and communication of research findings.
- To encourage the application of theoretical knowledge to real-life situations.

Course Outcomes

CO1: Understand and apply basic research concepts in demographic studies.
CO2: Identify and critically examine key population issues and trends.
CO3: Collect, organise, and analyse primary or secondary data.
CO4: Prepare a structured and coherent project report or seminar paper.
CO5: Present findings effectively using clear communication and analytical skills.
CO6: Demonstrate the ability to link theory with practical, real-world demographic concerns.

Syllabi (DASP1P: Seminar)

Learners shall undertake:

- Selection of a demographic issue or local case (e.g., migration, population ageing, fertility, health, urbanization).
- Collection of data through field visit / secondary sources / official reports (where feasible).
- Preparation of a brief profile of the study area or population group.
- Analysis of the selected issue using basic demographic concepts and tools.
- Interpretation of findings in relation to social and economic context.
- Suggestion of policy measures or intervention strategies.
- Preparation and submission of a Project Report (1,500–2,000 words).
- Seminar presentation and Viva-voce.
